

4.1. About London. Delete the bad alternative:

In 1066 William ~~Tell~~ / the Conqueror built the Tower of London to control England. Later it was a prison / ~~swimming pool~~. Today it is a museum / ~~an airport~~. A lot of visitors are interested in the famous dinosaurs / ~~ravens~~. A story says that it will be the end of England / ~~the Universe~~ if the dinosaurs / ~~ravens~~ leave the Tower.

Hyde Park and Regent's Park are not just tennis courts / ~~parks~~. In Regent's Park there is a natural iceberg / ~~large zoo~~. The most famous / ~~forgotten~~ part of Hyde Park is Speaker's Corner, where people stand on eggs / ~~boxes~~ and make speeches about almost nothing / ~~everything~~: for or against school, for or against alcohol, etc.

Most foreign astronauts / ~~visitors~~ go to Madame Tussaud's wax museum. School classes from all over Britain and from Timbuktu / ~~the Continent~~ come to this museum to look at the wax figures of famous people from the past and future / ~~present~~.

to conquer: invade prison: jail

4.2. On Sunday. Read the text by John Dempsey. Then answer the questions, using:

- Yes, he does - No, he doesn't - No, he doesn't. - Yes, he is - No, he isn't - Yes, he has -

I love Sundays! I walk to the newsagent's at the railway station and buy my Sunday newspaper, have a chat to Abdul Hashim, the Pakistani shopkeeper. Then I go back home for breakfast. I enjoy a good old, traditional British breakfast: bacon, eggs, fried bread, and toast and marmalade afterwards. And, of course, a big pot of tea. I take my time reading the newspapers.

- John Dempsey buys his newspaper after breakfast.
- The shopkeeper is from India.
- John talks to the shopkeeper for a while.
- John has something typically British for breakfast.
- He has toast and marmalade first, then the cooked breakfast.
- John reads his newspaper quickly.
