

available: accessible
to beg: to ask (for money)
beholder: observer, viewer blame: complaint
chain: string curiosity: interest
to flatter: to charm
(to) flock: group, to gather to grant: to allow
to join: to connect

linen: cloth, bedding
matters: concerns, things mighty: big, powerful mind: brain, awareness to occur: to happen
to practise: to exercise
skill: talent
sword: blade, weapon
tools: instruments, kits waste: leftover, rubbish

Practise makes perfect.

Connect by lines:

Practise makes perfect.
Curiosity killed the cat.
A bad workman blames his tools.
The bigger they are, the harder they fall.
Out of sight, out of mind.
Beggars can't be choosers.
It's better to be safe than sorry.
Do not burn your bridges behind you.
Fish and guests smell after three days.
If a job is worth doing, it is worth doing well.
Let the cat out of the bag.
All that glitters is not gold.
A chain is only as strong as its weakest link.
Do not wash your dirty linen in public.
Flattery will get you nowhere.
If you cannot beat them, join them.
It is easy to be wise after the event.
An apple a day keeps the doctor away.
All's well that ends well.
Early bird catches the worm.
Every cloud has a silver lining.
Hope for the best, prepare for the worst.
Pen is mightier than sword.

You must accept an offer or a situation because it is the only one available to you.
If you exercise enough, you can learn anything or develop any skill.
Enquiring into others' work can be dangerous. One should mind own business.
If you are going to spend time doing a piece of work, you should do it as well as possible.
We get tired of our visitors after three days of time.
Things that look good outwardly may not be as valuable or good.
Persons who have done something badly will seek to lay the blame on their equipment rather than admit their own lack of skill.
Don't do anything in life that will cut off other possibilities from being done.
A person stops thinking about something or someone if he or she does not see that thing or person for a period.
The more important persons are, the more difficult it is for them when they lose their power or importance.
One weak part will render the whole weak.
To let a secret be found out.
You understand a situation perfectly well and know how to deal with it, but only because it has already happened.
If someone is too strong for you to defeat, it is better to be on the same side as him or her.
You should not discuss family matters in public, especially if they are of the shameful nature.
Praise and nice talking will not persuade someone to do what is wanted.
Fruits are good for your health.
Hurrying will result in poor endings.
As long as the outcome is good, problems on the way don't matter.
One who starts early on the work has higher chance of success.
Every bad or negative situation can result in some benefit to you.
Be optimistic, but be prepared for a scenario where things can go wrong.
Thinking and writing have more influence on people and events than use of force.