

The window is open. There are two exercise books and a pen on the windowsill. To the left are two plants in pots.

If it wasn't foggy outside, you could see the following:

A mountain range with five peaks. There is still snow on these peaks. The middle peak is the highest. A cable car with two cabins leads up to it. The sun is setting at the back right, a crescent moon is rising at the back left. In the background to the left is a fir forest, to the right a small village with a church. There are two houses in the foreground, a small one on the left and a large one with a flat roof on the right. A car is parked in front of the small house. A woman is pushing a baby carriage (a stroller) in front of the large house. An avenue begins at the large house, which then leads to the back right. A cyclist is riding along the avenue. It's my friend who wants to visit me. A colorful butterfly flutters by outside my window.

Draw the view.
